

Methodological seminar for University lecturers from Cambridge English Language Assessment

21.04.2016

Anotation. The seminar for University teachers from Cambridge University Press and Cambridge English Language Assessment according to Common European Framework of Reference for Languages Assessment aspect

Key words: international communication; professional teachers' strategy; assessment; identifying students' learning strategy, Foreign Languages and Methodology Department.

April, 21th, Foreign Languages and Methodology Department English lecturerses I. Pluzhnyk and Y. Labunets took part in the methodological seminar of Cambridge University Press and Cambridge English Language Assessment, which took place at the Faculty of the Himanities and Pedagogy at the National University of Life and Environmental Sciences of Ukraine.

The seminar programme included two blocks: «Assessing Writing for Cambridge English First» and «Teaching Speaking for Cambridge English First».

The seminar continued the tradition of including foreign language university lecturers of Ukraine to the international exams of English according to European standards of foreign language skills at different levels based on Common European Framework of Reference for Languages: Assessment aspect.

The scientific and methodological value of the event was to determine the path of professional teachers' strategies formation not only about optimizing the process of preparing students for successful foreign language competence forming, but also guidelines and recommendations for assessment that could help students in identifying their own learning strategies, objective self-analysis and self-assessment.

